Correct answer: A

People are still reading books, and lots of them. The number of new books published keeps growing- 90,000 new titles in the United States during the last year by the latest industry count. The number is double the total output two decades ago. Reading is still an important part of our lives.

2. How many new books were published in the United States last year?

- A. 60,000
- B. 900
- C. 9,000
- D. 90,000

Correct answer: D

The average book reader spends more than one hour a day poring over the pages, often just before bed. Readers are not an idle lot. They are busy people, tennis players, skiers, gardeners. «TV isn't really a problem,» insists John Y. Cole, director of the Center for Books. Reading experts say that television programs based on books actually stimulate books sales. People find time to read because they enjoy reading, and they adjust their schedules to include time to pursue this activity.
